

Using the Spending view

The spending view allows you to look at three different views of your spending. With each view, you can click on the charts to see transactions related to that segment of the chart.

Spending over time

Spending over time presents you with a bar chart tracking your past six months of spending. To see the exact amount spent in a month, hover over the bar for that month.

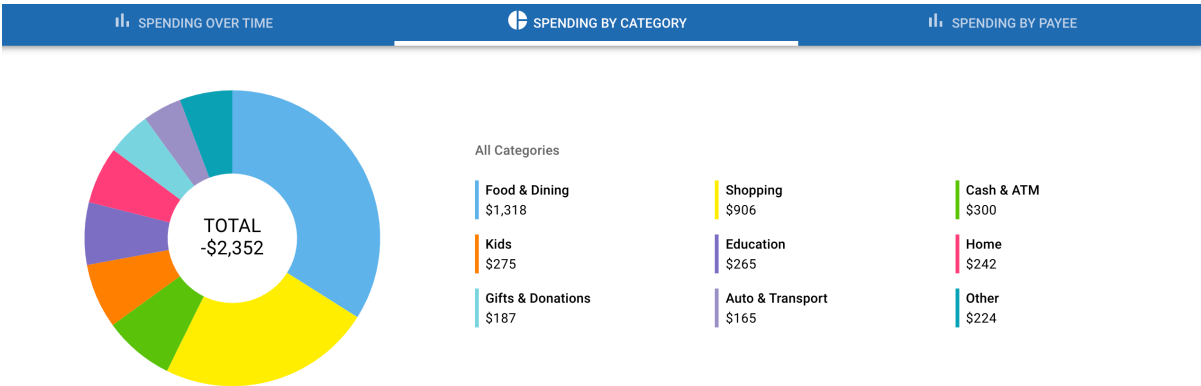

To see the transaction activity for a month, select the bar for that month. The transactions for that month will appear in the Transaction Activity list below the chart.

Spending by category

Spending by category presents a pie chart that presents your spending by the categories you have recorded for your transactions. This is useful for giving you an overall view of what you spend your money on.

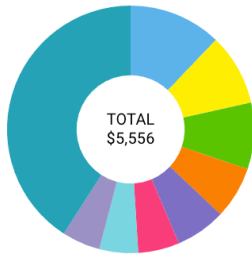

Select a category to see the transactions related to that category. The transactions for that category will appear in the Transaction Activity list below the chart.

Spending by payee

Spending by payee shows you what specific payees your money went to. It is a good way of looking at the locations and companies where you spend the most money.

Select a payee to see the transactions related to that payee. The transactions for that payee will appear in the Transaction Activity list below the chart.
