

Current Value

This is how much you have in an asset class, rounded to the nearest dollar.

You can select the accounts and securities you include and exclude on the Investments page. You might want to exclude accounts if you don't want them considered for a particular asset allocation goal. For example, you might not want to include an account holding college funds when rebalancing your retirement asset allocation.